Paula Bean has been a veteran in real estate since 1979. Profiled in the Wall Street Journal, the Orlando Sentinel, and other major publications, Paula is a pioneer who has been practicing consulting and fee-for-services for over ten years, way before its time, just as she did with Buyer Agency when it was a new and somewhat controversial part of real estate.

Paula is an e-PRO (Certified Real Estate Internet Expert), a member of the Real Estate Cyberspace Society, as well as a real estate educator and trainer. Paula's views, experiences, and opinions are much sought after by real estate agents through-out the U.S. and Canada via several online forums such as e-PROTalk, RealTalk and ActiveRain. In addition, Paula is the founder and moderator of her own online forum on how to successfully work with For-Sale-By-Owners, thus allowing agents not just across America but worldwide to seek her expertise as well.
